'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Yes, as we said before, football season is almost ready for the rabid fans.

* * * *

And as a result:

* * * *

Reams and reams of football publicity from Stanford, California, St. Mary's, Siwash and what have you is flooding the office.

* * * *

The biggest fan in the neighborhood, crying because his tickets to the St. Mary's game with California was on top of the stadium, finds that after a careful check of ticket offices his tickets are the best he can get.

* * * *

* * * *

Speaking of radios reminds us that in the afternoon KFRC has one of the best informal programs . . . ranking with its Blue Monday Jamboree.

* * * *

It is called the Happy Go Lucky Hour. Mingled with their foolishness, the artists are doing a world of good work.

* * * *

Hospitals, shut-ins and others daily turn their dials at two o'clock to hear an hour of sunshine.

* * * *

Right now the station is receiving Christmas gifts, which will be sent to poor children and to those in the hospitals at Christmas time.

* * * *

Such unselfish conduct deserves praise.

* * * *

Which all reminds us that Christmas will soon be here. And as usual we'll tell ourselves that tomorrow we'll start doing Christmas shopping.

* * * *

And we'll keep telling ourselves that until a few days before Christmas.

* * * *

And then the day before Christmas we rush ourselves sick trying to find a necktie for Uncle Henry and something or other for Aunt Tilda.

MRS. BEERY RETURNS HOME

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—UP—Mrs. Marguerite Beery, wife of Noah Beery, screen villian returned to her home here tonight after a nine day disappearance. Beery, who appealed for police aid, when he was unable to locate his wife, telephoned to the office of the homicide squad to give the news of the home-coming.

The meeting of Beery and his wife evidently was very brief. Beery, it was said at his home, went up to his ranch in the mountains and Mrs. Beery "went someplace in Hollywood."

Mrs. Beery telephoned the United Press a statement which said:

"I was much surprised upon my return to read in the newspapers that I had mysteriously disappeared. There was no mystery to my disappearance.

"I went to Las Vagas with the idea of establishing a residence and I intend to return there to make my permanent home.

"Will you please ascertain what reward Mr. Beery offered for my discovery? If it is sufficiently large I will have myself brought in at once.

"Newspapers reported Mr. Beery has said that I had $750 on my person at the time of my disappearance. During my entire married life I have never seen $750.

GIRL FOILS BANDIT HERE

Richmond police continued the search yesterday and last night for a young man, dressed in a dark suit and wearing a light cap who Monday night attempted to rob Miss Mildred Miehan, 509 Riverside Drive, San Pablo.

BANKER HELD ON CHARGES

OAKLAND, Sept. 17.—E. C. Ortell, 40, manager of the Fairfax avenue branch of the Bank of America here, was under arrest today on a charge of theft, involving $2000 of the bank's funds.

R. L. Frier, an official of the bank, signed the warrant for Ortell's arrest. Frier also turned over to the police an alleged confession made by Ortell. The confession read in part:

"This is to advise you that two notes which are now carried at the Fairfax avenue branch are forgeries, and that I received part of the benefit from one and all the benefit from the other."

According to police, Ortell had deposited the notes and had received $825 on one and $450 on the other. It was also charged that the manager had drawn virtually all of a $1400 account at the branch bank at Twenty-second and Mission streets, where he formerly was a manager.

It was this account that drew suspicion to Ortell, it was said. The account had been inactive for two years and when the depositor appeared and asked for the interest, he only received $6. When he protested a checkup showed that all but $150 had been drawn from the account, it was said.

Questioned by police, Ortell declared that his speculations were due to stock trading and "poor pay." He pleaded for the bank to give him time to repay the money.

2 DEAD IN DRINK BOUT

MILL [illegible]LEY, Sept. 17.—Chemists today were examining the stomachs of two men who died in agony here last night from some mysterious and fatal poison imbibed during a drinking party.

The two men are, Steve Regan, 27, and John Eck, 46, both of San Francisco.

The first intimation of the tragedy came late last night when Regan staggered into a poolroom next door to Eck's rooming house and moaned.

"We had three drinks and Johnny doped the last one."

He died in less than a half an hour, despite work of physicians.

Meanwhile Deputy Sheriff Arthur Buss went to Eck's room to find him nearly dead. He died in a few minutes without regaining consciousness.

Chief of Police Charles McCrum said a half pint of liquor was found in Eck's room, and white crystals were discovered in the bottom of the glasses used in the fatal drinking bout.

According to the physicians, the men must have imbibed some swiftly lethal dose, since wood alcohol or ptomaine poisoning would not induce death so rapidly.

Police are also investigating the rumor that there had been enmity between the two men and Regan had sought an excuse yesterday afternoon to avoid Eck's invitation to dinner.

Parole Hope Is Important

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 17 UP—Assuring the prisoner that the state is giving him a 'square-deal' is the secret of preventing riots in penitentiary, State Pardon and Parole Officer E. P. Hill believes.

When a prisoner knows that he will receive clemency at the proper time if he establishes a good record while in the penitentiary he will not become discontented, Hill said. He pointed out that discontentment, coupled with a feeling of hopelessness over clemency prospects, probably has caused a number of riots.

Hill believes Oklahoma's unofficial pardon and parole board system has done much to maintain order in the state's penal institutions recently while serious outbreaks have occured in similar institutions in other sections of the nation.

Oklahoma is the only state which has unofficial pardon and parole boards—one for the penitentiary and the other for the reformatory—whose procedure is not outlined in state statutes The governor, however, has the right either to approve or disapprove all acts of the two boards.

Movie Horse Nearing Death

COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 17 UP—"Brownie," the horse that helped Ken Maynard to stardom on the circus lot and in the movies, has only a few months before it passes to the "Happy Stamping Grounds" or wherever it is that noble horses spend eternity.

This assertion, made by veterinarians, saddened the noted actor's vacation at his home here this summer and he ordered that the horse be given every possible care.

The animal is 24 years old and lives a life of peace and quiet on the farm of W. H. Maynard, Ken's father. It was the first horse used by the actor in his stunts. Now he has a string of 16, he told admiring boys who clung around him while he was here. His affections are strongest for "Brownie," he admitted.

The Brownie of today, with cracked hoofs and weakened body, bears little resemblance to the trim mare that Ken rode in past years when he was climbing to stardom. However the horse will not be "shot to end her misery." That fact was made plain by the actor's father.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Prospects of a gasoline war in this city disappeared today when major oil companies and independents followed the lead set by the Standard Oil and raised prices of gasoline one cent today.

The Retail Service Station Dealer's association declared today that it would post 21 cent prices within the next few days.

LEGION ELEVEN LEARNS NEW PLAYS

Signal practice, more signal practice and still more signal practice is being indulged in by members of the Richmond Post of the American Legion football team, which is rapidly getting into form for the first game of the season a week from Sunday.

Claude Samples, athletic director of the Longfellow junior high school, who is coaching the Legion squad, has been working the players hard on formations and plays and will continue at tonight's practice which will be held at the Richmond Union high school field.

The coach has been busy working out formations for the team, and is expected to spring a number of fast, tricky plays when the squad takes the field Sept. 28.

Last Tuesday night Samples devoted to perfecting a few plays and teaching the linesmen essentials of blocking and tackling.

"There will be no ham and egg team on the field when the fellows play their first game," Samples said yesterday. "I want to put a team onto the field the first game that will not only win, but will do so by a decisive score."

Samples has been hindered a little in forming the team, due to the fact that some of the players are working broken hours and are unable to attend practices regularly.

The players are taking more interest in the team since Samples has taken it over, however, and are practicing three times a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday. The practice tonight will start at 5 o'clock.

Dan "Hap" Bradley, manager of the Richmond aggregation, has been ordered by the local Legion to buy new equipment, which will probably be here Sunday.

Meanwhile he is working hard answering letters from managers of other teams, and lining up games for the squad.

Van Lear Black Will Fight Seen

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Jesse Black, widow of Van Lear Black, publisher and world flier who disappeared from his yacht on Aug. 18, has renounced the will by which she was bequeathed one-third of the residuary estate.

She stated in her court suit that her statutory right under the Maryland law to an absolute one-third of the entire estate should be taken care of.

Seattle Defeats Portland 8 To 1

SEATTLE, Sept. 17.—UP—Scoring one or more runs in each of the first five innings, Seattle beat Portland here tonight, 8 to 1.

LIPTON RACER DISABLED, LOSES

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—UP—The yacht Enterprise, defending the America's cup, today on the third race of the cup series against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, when 44 minutes after the start Shamrock's main halyard parted and its great mainsail came fluttering down.

For hours there was doubt whether the Shamrock would be able to race tomorrow. Late this afternoon, however, the race committee of the New York Yacht club announced that the fourth race would be sailed as scheduled in the morning. It will be Shamrock's last chance. Enterprise needs but one more victory to clinch the series.

When the main sail of Shamrock fell in today's abortive race, Enterprise hesitated a moment to avoid serious accident and then sailed off into the white flecked blue of a sea clistening in the morning sun to cover the 30 miles windward-leeward course in 3 hours 35 minutes 59 seconds.

There was some gossip that the race committee might, as a gesture of sportsmanship declare the contest "no race," but no yachting men could figure how, under the rules, such a thing could be done, and the gossip was discontinued.

Shamrock was leading a little and had the strategic berth to the windward at the moment she broke down, although Harold S. Vanderbilt, using all his skill was gradually overcoming the advantage Shamrock had won when Edward Heard, at the helm of the Challenger had for the first time outmaneuvered him in masterful fashion at the start.

The Shamrock's mainsail covered the crew with its 4500 square feet of heavy canvass as it fell. A portion of it slid overside and dragged in the water. But in a moment men came scrambling out from beneath this unwelcome blanket and soon had it safely folded up and bound to the main-boom. No one was injured.

Today's race was sailed in a 15-mile an hour breeze which whipped up the ocean and deterred scores of smaller craft, which heretofore have been in the seagoing "gallery," from venturing to the course which lies nine miles outside Brenton's reef. Destroyers rocked and rolled; The palatial yachts of such people as the Morgans, the Astors and the Vanderbilts tossed uncomfortably and the racing yachts were swept with seas and sprayed with foam.

Stars Defeat Seals, 8 To 4

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—UP—The Hollywood Stars, assisted nobly by Green and Barbee, increased their lead in the Pacific Coast league today, by turning back the San Francisco Seals to the tune of 8 to 4.

Green banged out a homer in the third inning to give the Stars the lead, one man was on at the time, Barfoot drove out two homers, the first coming in the fifth coming in the fifth inning, scoring one run ahead of him, and the other in the eight, with one one on.

The victory gives the Stars a two game edge in the series.

Browns Beat Yanks, 9 To 8

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—The St. Louis Browns nosed out the New York Yankees 9 to 8 today to even the series at one all.

When Babe Ruth let the ball get away from him in the sixth inning Melille and Levey scampered home with what proved to be the winning runs.

The Browns began their scoring early, pounding Johnson and Holloway for an eight run lead going into the Yanks seventh inning. Rip Collins coasted along until the Yanks got to him in the eighth innings. Six hits scoring seven runs.

Solons Defeat Oaks In Second

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—UP—Sacramento held fourth place in the Pacific Coast league by gaining a second victory over Oakland here tonight, 8 to 3. Six runs scored by the Senators i the first inning proved to be sufficient.

Indian Myths Published In Book Form

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—UP—A representative collection of the myths and tales that were related around the campfires of California Indians in all parts of the state long before the coming of the white men, has just been published in a 300 page book by E. W. Gifford, curator of the University of California Museum of Anthropology.

Following an introduction concerning the custom of story-telling among the Indians and the various religious and social beliefs which formed the basis of the stories and myths, Curator Gifford gives the translations of some eighty-two of the strange tribes explained the world about them or entertained visitors and their children.

The stories have been in process of collection for the past quarter of a century by dozens of anthropologists and have been published in scientific publications, but have never before been brought under one cover and put in shape for popular reading. Everything that the Indian wondered at, or thought about, was incorporated by him in a story.

JOURNEY'S END TO OPEN AT FOX

"Journey's End" the war play that had played around the world before it was a year old, and that raised an obscure author to fame, defies the biggest dramatic convention by not having a woman in it or a love story—and yet it is crammed with a vital love interest.

In the Tiffany all-dialogue production of this R. C. Sheriff masterpiece, coming today to the Fox-California theater, a key of romance is struck when Lieut. Osborne, gray-haired and three years in war service, tells Lieut. Raleigh young and just arrived in the front line trench to :think of it as romantic—it helps."

The first love interest shows in the hero worship of the shoolboy Raleigh for his idol, Stanhope. He comes into the trenches and finds his idol wearing clay feet, but he understands why and how he came a drunkard and still sees him as his hero.

Second is the love of Stanhope for Raleigh's sister. She is never seen— not even her photo is shown to us, but if she were there before you you could not have a more poignant love story than is told you with her absent.

Third is the love for home and the nice things of life to which every man has a right—that all these men had before the hysteria of nations sent them to war—before they were herded in dark, damp, rat-infested, vile-smelling holes under-ground—and then sent out to be blown to destruction in the name of love of country— patriotism!

James Whale directed "Journey's End" a story that he knows probably even better than its author, for he has directed many of its stage productions. George Pearson supervised and RCA Photophone recorded. Colin Clive, by special permission of Maurice Browne, Ltd plays the role of Capt. Stanhope, David Manners plays young Raleigh, Ian Maclaren is Osborne and others are Billy Bevan, Anthony Bushell, Jack Pitcairn, Thomas Whiteley, Charles Garrard and Warner Klinger.

BROTHER LEO WILL BE FETED

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Sept. 17.—As a special tribute to a native San Franciscan who has attained signal fame in the field of higher education, Mayor James Rolph, Jr. and Archbishop Edward J. Hanna have announced a testimonial dinner to be given at the Palace hotel on the evening of Sept. 18.

Representatives of various colleges and universities in California as well as many professional men and former students of the college will gather to recognize Brother Leo's recent appointment to the chancellorship of the Moraga valley college.

As a native son of his city, Brother Leo has given unstintedly of his time and ability to San Francisco at various civic gatherings. In 1927 he was the principal speaker at the civic commemoration of the Centenary of St. Francis, patron of the city. Again in 1929 he was orator of the day when San Franciscans commemorated Joan of Arc. He has been a frequent lecturer in the city.

Hundreds of San Francisco and east bay men have passed through his classes at Sacred Heart college and Saint Mary's during the past twenty-five years, and will return to honor him at this dinner. Through the Alumni association of St. Mary's, many clubs in the bay district have been invited to assist in arranging the program of the testimonial dinner.

Edward I. Barry, San Francisco attorney, and other members of the alumni of the college have arranged the program.

A nationally known critic, lecturer and Shakespearean authority, Brother Leo was made chancellor of St. Mary's after twenty-two years of service as head of its English department. This period was uninterrupted except for a sabbatical year in 1924, when he went to Italy and England to complete special research work in the study of Dante and Shakespeare.

His inimitable and refreshing style and outlook on life have made him much sought after as a lecturer, but it is chiefly as a critic and author that he has won fame.

The publication of such works as "English Literature" now in its fourth edition, and the production of such plays as "Dante, The Wingbearer" "Ecce Homo" and "The Tree of Kerioth" have won him wide reputation.

Ruins Left By Indians Are Probed

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—UP—A survey of the ruins of pueblo houses left by Indians who lived in southeastern Arizona previously, probably, to the development of the historical pueblos, has just been completed and reported upon by Professor Carl Sauer of the geography department of the University of California, and Donald Brand, graduate student registered from Valley Center.

Professor Sauer and Brand explain that the district which they surveyed is a neglected corner of the southwest, an area one hundred miles wide on the American side of the Mexican boundary, which has been overlooked in the rush to learn more about the highly developed cultural centers of the Pueblo Indians of more recent times.

In the course of their survey, they obtained samples of broken pottery and the general location plan of some forty ancient settlement sites. From this material, reported in a University of California publication, "Pueblo Sites in Southeastern Arizona," they reach the conclusion that these old sites probably do not represent a more backward border people living at the same time as the early Pueblo Indians, but may be the predecessors of the Pueblo Indians.

They suggest the possibility that in very early times the people of the Southwest acquired or brought the foundations of their culture from the highly developed civilizations of Mexico, that later hostile, aboriginal peoples cut off their communication with Mexico, and as a result Pueblo culture was evolved as an independent development. Under this theory the ancient ruins which they studied would represent conditions as they existed about the time of isolation from the culture centers of Aztec Mexico.

Congressman Carter made the principle address of the day, declaring that since his last visit to the harbor two years ago, considerable work had been accomplished. He also lauded Congressman Curry for his successful efforts on behalf of the harbor project, and said Richmond was fortunate in being represented by such a man.

Col. Thomas S. Robins, United States rivers and harbors engineer for this district, who provided the launch for the tour, also said that future harbor aid depends upon development of commerce. He added that the government will soon call for bids for 3000 feet more of training wall to protect the harbor, which will complete the training wall to its 10,000 feet length as called for in the plan.

Many Prevent

Nearly 100 visitors from Mojave county and from Kingham and the southwestern section of the state were in attendance however.

Secretary Wilbur received the silver spike after it had passed through the hands of Governor Frederick R. Balzar of Nevada and Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, builders of the branch line.

The secretary made only a brief address at the spike driving.

Speech Made

"When Horace Greely uttered his now famous words 'Go West Young Man' he little dreamed that his advice would ever see such development as now impends for this vast area," he said.

Later while thousands of visitors thronged through the streets of Las Vegas, Secretary Wilbur made an address which was broadcast over a national radio hookup.

"We mark this as the beginning of a new era in the handling by states working together of those common problems upon the solution of which the continued vitality of our nation depends," Wilbur said.

Millions Spent

The secretary predicted that millions of dollars will be spent in developing and controlling water and power resources of the nation.

"In controlled water lies the future of our country, and particularly that of its western portion," he declared. "If we would harvest the annual crops of water power and vegitation and control water transportation then we must unite in flood control, dredging, dam building, reclamation and irrigation. We are determined to no longer trust to the caprices of nature, but to harness our vast river systems, to distribute power along wires, and water through ditches to the places of our choice.

"We are spending hundreds of millions to deal with the Mississippi and its branches so we here celebrate this new control of the colorado. In turn will come our other river systems, particularly the Columbia."

Bible Course To Be Given At U. C. Soon

BERKELEY, Sept. 14.—Most people are suprisingly ignorant of the contents of the Bible, believes Adolph E. Anderson, University of California Extension Division lecturer in English subjects.

Anderson's observation comes as the result of his giving a course in "A Literary Study of the Bible" each fall and spring for adults in the bay region, under the Extension Division.

"The Bible is not a single book; it is a library of rich and greatly diversified sacred literature," he says. "The Bible contains legends and folk-lore; it contains historical books, such as the books of Kings and the two books of Samuel; literary essays, such as the Proverbs and Ecclesiates, and it contains poems, psalms and songs. Some of the greatest drama ever written is to be found in the Bible, such as the Book of Job, which Carlisle, Tennyson, and Matthew Arnold all regarded as an unsurpassed dramatic poem."

Anderson's class in Bible study along with a course, Contemporary Biography, wil be started in Oakland, Monday night, while classes will be held in San Francisco on Wednesday night. San Francisco classes are at 640 Powell street, Oakland classes at 1730 Franklin street.

HEAT STORY TOLD BY SCOUT

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—The terrific heat of Death Valley's blistering summer is now waning to the pleasanter temperatures of Autumn, but during the last "hot spell" in the valley when the mercury soared as high as 143 degrees, eggs could easily be fried on the hot rocks.

This is the news which Outdoor Franklin, Richfield's celebrated road scout has just brought back after a motor trip which, during the hottest week of the 1930 summer, took him and his car into the lowest and most torrid place in the United States.

And, as far as the egg frying was concerned, Franklin emphasized that this was no figure of speech.

"I actually fried an egg on one of the blistering rocks in the valley near the Devil's Golf Course," declared the veteran road scout. "The temperature was about 143 degrees. I washed off the top of a hot rock, lubricated it a bit with motor oil, cracked an egg into the bubbling grease and a few minutes later had as nicely a fried egg as ever was turned out of a killet. Yet Old Sol—veritable cooking stove of that superheated valley—had done it all."

What's more, Franklin has the photographs to prove it.

That this venture by motor car into Death Valley's dangerous summer heat was only made possible by use of the best possible lubricating oil, was the assertion of Franklin.

"With anything but the most superior heat-resisting lubricant a motorist in that temperature would find his oil thinned to the point where bearings would be destroyed," he explained. "This has happened to motorists in times past; it has always proved dangerous as well as expensive.

"For that reason, I selected Richlube extra-heavy Pennsylvania motor oil. That my confidence was not misplaced may be judged by the fact that the oil gauge showed no variation, remained at a definite pressure of 30 pounds despite the heat and low gear work on grades, and when drained out disclosed litttle or no thinning or wear."

The stiffest test was the toll-road grade from Bungalow City to the top of the Panamints, according to Franklin. This stretch is 18 miles long; from 15 to 118 per cent grade. It was pulled by the Richfield scout car in midday when the sun was at its scorching zenith.

STATE SEEKS 1931 LEGION CONCLAVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—World War veterans of California are mobilizing for a drive to secure the 1931 national American Legion convention for Los Angeles. The Legionnaires will make their drive at the coming national conclave of the American Legion to be held in Boston, October 6 to 9.

By special train, the big contingent of California delegates to the Boston convention is preparing to go, according to State Commander B. W. Gearhart. After leaving California, a brief stop will be made by the delegates at El Paso for the purpose of permitting a visit to the old Mexican city of Juarez and then the delegation will hurry on to Washington where a visit to President Hoover is to be made. While in Washington, the California delegates will pay a visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington cemetery.

Invitations have been coming to State Commander Gearhart from various Massachusetts cities asking the delegates from California to pay visits to the communities, following the convention at Boston. New Haven, Connecticut, has also invited the Golden State delegates for a visit.

California's delegates will wear a distinctive uniform during the Boston convention activities, according to word sent out by State Commander Gearhart. The men will wear orange colored coats and caps, white flannel trousers, soft white shirts, blue sashes, orange bow ties, white shoes and white sox. The women in the party will be attired in white dresses and will wear orange bow ties, blue sashes and white shoes and stockings.

A special committee will devote itself to the campaign to secure the next national conclave for Los Angeles. The committee members have already begun their work and State Commander Gearhart is confident that the 1931 convention will be awarded this state.

General John J. Pershing has accepted an invitation of O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, to be a distinguished guest of the national convention. General Pershing will extend brief greetings at the opening session, the morning of October 6, and that evening he will be the guest of honor and speaker of the evening at the national commander's dinner, this formal address to be broadcast in a national hook-up.

It has been two years since the Legionnaires have had the opportunity of paying homage to their war-time commander-in-chief as he was unable to attend the Louisville convention last year. His last appearance before the Legion's national gathering was in San Antonio, in 1928. His first appearance before the Legion in Boston will be in the Arena, which seats about 12,000, at the same session which will be addressed by President Hoover.

DEFENSE WILL CLOSE RUM CASE

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 17.—UP—A burst of exceptional activity featured the Lyle-Whitney conspiracy trial today as the defense prepared to close its case with testimony of Senator Wasley L. Jones and additional character witnesses.

Senator Jones, sponsor of the "five and ten" law was introduced as a surprise witness. He denied that he had ever received $6,000 from the Roy Olmstead liquor ring for his 1926 campaign fund.

Before Senator Jones was called to the stand, Ewing D. Colvin, King county prosecutor, was closely examined by the government but was staunch in his support of the defendants.

John J. Sullivan, attorney ofr Clifford McKinney, exonerated in the present trial, testified for the defense, but his statements acted as a boomerang when he accused William Whitney, one of the defendants, of blocking federal graft investigation in 1927.

These and other character witnesses were introduced to support Whitney, Roy C. Lyle, Earl Corwin and Richard Fryant, former dry officials charged with accepting bribes and protecting liquor dealers.

Jones' appearance was brief. It had been charged that Alfred Hubbard former "pay off" man for the Olmstead rum ring, had given Whitney $6,000 for Jones' 1926 campaign fund.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

For the Very First Day at School

MAY every small boy and girl, who never has gone to school before,
Go bravely, cheerfully, eagerly upon this first road from home.
May nobody ever have given them the false traditional notion
That the shades of the prisonhouse are about to enfold them.
May they realize, instead, however faintly and childishly, the truth
That school is the key
To unlock the doors to a big and beautiful and perpetually interesting world.
That through school a child is made free of books
And all their magic of loveliness and wonder and wisdom and imagination and tears and laughter;
That through school a child may learn to use his richest possession—
His mind, his power of reasoning and creative thought;
That through school he may learn the simple, sensible habits and laws
Which enable him to live with the least bother to himself and others—
The practical technique of orderliness, discipline, punctuality, perseverance, hard work,
That through school he may learn rule-of-thumb democracy—
The realization that every chap should have his chance,
That, even if you don't like him, he has as much right as y
To life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,
That you must put up with him, even work and play with him—
While he puts up with you;

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

That in school a child may encounter at least some unselfish, intelligent understanding and guidance
From men and especially from women who are moved to help children
Not because of kinship, or indolent good nature, or money reward, or even public recognition,
But simply because they are born teachers, as keenly interested in boys and girls
As a gardener in his roses;
That school nowadays is far from meaning all work and no play,
But offers the jolliest, most exciting games
And the soundest, most carefully planned training for physical as well as mental growth;
That school, in short, is no jail, no penalty of growing-up, no ruthless machine
Unless scholars make it so by thinking it so.
If only every youngster who goes to school for the first time—
Who becomes one of New York's more than a million school children—
If every child and the parents of every child might somehow realize
That education is the supreme adventure of youth,
And that never before, at any time or in any place, has this adventure been so universally and splendidly the privilege
Of EVERY boy and EVERY girl!
Oh, with all the faults of our schools, with all the shortcomings of the teachers,
They offer so much, they do so much for the beginners at life!
Learning, ethical standards, manners, appreciation of beauty, craftsmanship, companionship, democracy, leadership, self-respect, self-support, inspiration—
These are some of the values which children can find at school—
If they will look, if their parents will help them to look and take.
Simply and seriously, if there is any hope for the world—
Any hope that the next generation will be even one step ahead of the last—
Where is that hope to be realized, except in education?
Then what sacrifice is too great to make for education?
What faith in it is too far-reaching?
What must we not do, to make children understand
That their school, the school to which they go today, is the goal of all the ages?

WHERE MEN RELAX, AND WOMEN—DON'T

THE WOMAN OF IT: I've read so many articles about the inability of modern America to relax that I had come to believe it true—certainly, the average New Yorker seems to bear out the contention. But coming through New England last week I discovered that the gentle art of relaxation still flourishes hardily, especially in the green silences of the Granite State.

Each of the gray, weatherbeaten farmhouses seemed to have at least one male of indefinite age propped up against the doorway, or rocking back and forth on the run-down porch. *The woman of the house was almost never in sight, although the wash blowing on the line testified to her industrious presence somewhere within.

In the towns, benches in the tree-lined square were well filled with the stronger sex in various attitudes of complete repose.

No one appeared to be at all worried about getting things done—and yet the cows and sheep meditatively grazing on the hillside seemed contented, and the towns more prosperous than otherwise. How is it done? Have those farmers in the long winter evenings thought up some way of systematizing their chores and planting, so that most of the day remains free from labor . . . or do the women do all the work!

If the former is true, let us by all means invite a committee from New Hampshire and Vermont down to reorganize our hectically rushed New York lives. (But if it's the latter, Allah deliver me from marrying a farmer!) H. T. G.

*Italics ours—we were born in New Hampshire.

They do a tremendous amount of it.

You'll have more relaxation in New York.

ASK MA—SHE KNOWS

Father is unimportant in the eyes of the modern girl, says Miss A. H. McAllister of Glasgow, and this Scottish social worker suggests several elaborate explanations. The right one, we think, is simple. The modern girl merely takes her cue from Mother!

TEASING MOOD

My love is mighty as the sea
And just as strong and deep.
The sea is also very wild—
So if I am, don't weep!

SALLY SANDLER.

A New Jersey court has just ruled that for a wife to beat an errant husband on a public street is not cruelty but merely a reminder of family responsibilities. Times HAVE changed since English common law allowed a MAN to beat his WIFE, provided the stick was no bigger than his thumb!

The Linen Closet

A SEPTEMBER bride is putting her home in order and one of the most attractive spots in that home is her linen closet.

Blue happens to be her favorite color and knowing that blue has a whitening effect on linens she used this color in the closet. She painted the walls in the closet a light blue and for covering the shelves she used the washable blue fabrikoid material.

Each group of linens is tied with blue ribbon, a large bow adorning the front of the larger pieces and narrow wash ribbon was used for the smaller group.

To complete the helpful color scheme the electric light had a blue bulb. When the door was opened there was an exclamation of delight, for the closet certainly presents a most attractive appearance and the bride feels confident her linens will not be likely to turn yellow.

You and Your Child

By Irma Morris

The Sensitive Child

THE children were coming home from the play. Bobby and Billy were rehearsing the antics and jokes of the funny men, with much glee. But Clara sat huddled in the corner of the car, with puckered brow and trembling lip. "Didn't you like the play?" asked her mother. "Oh, yes," the child answered quickly. And then added, "But why did that nice man die?"

"She's always like that," her mother said, recounting this incident. "I'm worried about the child. She's so sensitive." We will gain nothing by worrying about our sensitive children. We must comfort ourselves in the realization that sensitive people experience greater joy, as well as greater sorrow, than do the more callous; and also, that it is to the highly sensitive souls we are indebted for most of our poetry, art and drama.

Instead of worrying about the sensitive children let us help them to grow up strong and self-controlled. First of all, let us be careful not to overstimulate them. We must be alert in the selection of the stories we tell, the movies and plays we allow them to see. These youngsters should have plenty of rest and quiet play. They should not be continually "on the go." A placid, calm mother is a wonderfully quieting influence.

We must have imaginations enough also to see when these young ones are suffering. They often suffer keenly when they witness quarrels between their parents, when they see their parents or other loved ones worried or unhappy, or when they are subjected to ridicule. Let us protect them from such suffering as much as we possibly can. And let us gain their confidence so that they will never be ashamed or afraid to come to us with their troubled thoughts. It is a great help for a sensitive soul to be able to unbosom himself instead of having to keep all his fears, bewilderment and unhappiness locked up inside.

Some sensitive children take offense very easily. This trait should be overcome. It is the self-centered, spoiled child who is easily offended. The unselfish youngster, who has many and varied interests outside himself, is not so easily "hurt."

We should strive not to have our sensitive children feel that they are "different." Let us not talk about them!

Sensitive children, like sensitive plants, must be protected from the too scorching sun and too blinding rain. Children with such natures need, even more than others, to be taught self-control and to be led to a balanced, philosophical attitude toward life. And let us bear in mind that although the sensitive child feels the pain of the world more keenly than his more phlegmatic brothers, he also has a deeper appreciation of its beauties and its joys.

Which Is Your Own Period Gown?

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

FOR any woman who has studied her own type at all minutely this new evening season presents enormous possibilities. Now is your chance to look your best—be thoroughly in character and cast the charming lure of your own best period about your personality.

Evening things from Paris are wonderfully done in a period manner. Each designer seems to have outdone the other with gowns ranging anywhere from Italian Renaissance to Victorian.

If you're going in strong for the period thing then make it your business to study the authenticity and the suitability of the gowns you choose, for nothing can be more representative of the funny sheet than, for instance, a sun burned boyish bobbed figure in, say, a Victorian gown. She would need something much more demure in the way of a coiffure and certainly her skin should be white as representative of those more modest days when the sun was not allowed to shine upon the female complexion.

CHANEL'S DRESS OF STIFFENED PINK LACE RUFFLED FROM HEAD TO FOOT.

A Modern Note

FOR the most modern of the young moderns—those for whom it seems quite impossible to step out of their thoroughly up-to-date expression—there are modern evening dresses, as, for example, the one shown on this page with its scallops of white on black and its wreath of white roses sloping over one shoulder and down the back of the low neckline. Nicolle Groult has done this gown quite truly in the spirit of all that is of the moment. It is the most youthful looking thing and requires no particular dignity reminiscent of a past age to set it off properly.

There are others just as straight, figure-outlining and graceful as this one, each a gem in its own way. But we want to get on to the more romantic period things.

CHANEL'S DRESS OF RED CHIFFON TUCKED IN FINE PIN TUCKS.

IRENE DANA DOES AN 1830 FASHION IN STIFF BLACK SATIN.

How About the 1897's?

EVERYTHING is still—delicately so, not too hard and boardlike. The quaintness is the thing that makes them charming and to so many figures just that faint suggestion of spriteness is a most becoming factor.

I want you to look at the lace gown by Chanel sketched here. Could anything be more lovely than that mass of pink flounces, each one stiffened ever so slightly so that the appearance is one of complete freshness. That dropped shoulder line, too, if the figure is not too square and athletic, is something that will get you more attention at a party than you have ever believed possible unless you have tried it out before. It is a great appeal on sloping shouldered, bottle necked, even flat chested women and it works wonders in the way of charm.

It is nice to think that we have come to the place in this hectic march of fashion where those gowns that have made women most attractive through all the ages can be dragged out and used all over again to fulfill the selfsame purpose.

* * *

Back to 1830

IRENE DANA takes us back to the last century with her gown of stiff black striped silk—the sort of thing famed for standing alone. She adds a ruffle near the floor only to help the stiff, flaring line, and she tucks and puffs the little sleeves so that the general idea shall be carried out perfectly.

She calls this dress Three White Camelias, obviously because the only trimming happens at the waistline, where these three flowers in dead white are laid against their black background.

* * *

Color and Chiffon

CHANEL knows that we can't forego our chiffons. They are too soft and flattering. And so she has created this long and flowing model in brilliant red—as simple a thing as it is possible to imagine and so very delicately carried out.

The whole of the bodice and the upper section of the skirt are tucked in fine pin tucks and then there is that wide, stiff, flaring flounce reaching the floor in billowy folds.

To help the illusion she has added a scarf of the frock's own material—just a wisp of a thing that wraps around the throat and is left to drape gracefully over the arms.

NICOLLE GROULT DOES A DISTINCTLY MODERN DRESS IN BLACK AND WHITE.

Glass Coasters

THE usual glass coasters have been glorified and now are a compromise between a mirror and a coaster. They are more attractive than the crystal types, being in gold, amber, ruby, azure, green or cobalt, shaped flat like a mirror, felted on the back, and in four and six-inch widths. They are suitable for table service and may be used under vases of flowers for decorations.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

THAT great army of people who watch their waistlines, count their calories, or restrict themselves to a bland and wholesome vegetable diet should never travel south of the Mason-Dixon line. They ought even to avoid visiting at the homes of people of Southern extraction, for where we find Southerners we find no trace of the raw carrot, bran muffin, and vegetable loaf type of cookery. The Southern invasion on our dinner tables brings always such delicacies as feathery light beaten biscuit, crisply - browned squab, and savory rich sauces.

KAREN HOLLIS

Southern cooks are responsible for introducing us to many delicious combinations of shellfish, consommes of delicate flavor in which a whole garden of vegetables and spices mingle; combinations of meat and fowl.

Perhaps the latter are most widely known. Chicken a la Maryland has brought to cafe menus the world over the combination of spring chicken and grilled ham. But the New Orleans version of a chicken and ham combination has never had its due acclaim. You will admit that this is a regrettable oversight, I am sure, after you have once tasted a New Orleans chicken and ham pie. Here is how it is made.

NEW ORLEANS CHICKEN AND HAM PIE

- 3 cups chicken, cut in small pieces
- 1½ cups ham, cut in small pieces
- 1 cup corn, cut from cob
- 8 or 10 mushroom tops (can be omitted)
- 2 large, or 3 small sweet potatoes, boiled and mashed
- 2 cups chicken stock, well seasoned
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon white pepper

Thicken the chicken stock with the flour and add chicken, ham, corn and mushroom tops. Season well with salt, pepper, a dash of nutmeg and a pinch of celery salt. Mash the sweet potatoes and beat them until light, adding butter and seasoning. If they are too thick to beat very light, add a little cream. Put the chicken and ham mixture in an earthenware baking dish and cover the top with a layer of mashed sweet potato. Do not smooth the top but leave it ridged and uneven. Put in a hot oven or under the broiler for about three minutes, or until the top is browned. Serve very hot.

SPEAKING OF OPERATIONS——

"SPEAKING of operations," said the oak tree to the elm, "did I ever tell you how I had five buckets of cement inserted in my trunk?"

"No," said the elm. "Do!"

"Well, a couple of years ago," continued the oak, "I wasn't feeling any too spry. My roots felt cold and clammy, I had pains in my back during tornadoes, and dizzy spells whenever the kids played ring-around-the-rosy about me. So they called in a tree doctor and he advised to have all my acorns taken out."

"Did you do it?" inquired the cherry tree.

"Yes," said the oak, "and it didn't do a bit of good. That tree doctor didn't know his stuff. Well, after I kept ailing for a couple more months, they called in another tree surgeon and he diagnosed me right. He cut a big section out of my trunk, just below the left limb, and put in five buckets of cement. I though I might get hardening of the arteries from it, but I never felt better in my life."

* * *

"I had an operation, too," said the pine. "Remember that forest fire I got caught in seven years ago? Well, it burned thirty-two square feet of bark right off my lower trunk and I suffered tortures. But a tree surgeon grafted some new bark on me again and you can hardly tell the difference today—only a slight scar."

"My operation was a little more serious than that," said the maple tree. "I didn't have nearly the strength I used to have and when children rigged up a rope swing from my left branch, I'd have the awfulest twinge!"

"What was the matter?" asked the oak.

* * *

"Well, at first I thought it might be cancer in my lower trunk," continued the maple. "It had been bothering me off and on since horses used to chew at me years and years ago. But the tree surgeon came and gave me a thorough examination and it wasn't that."

* *

"What was it then?" asked the cherry tree.

"For a while the tree surgeon didn't know. He took samples of my sap, but that was O. K. My roots were in good condition, too. But finally he found what was the trouble. It seems an old bird's nest that was abandoned in my upper branches had caused an abscess. That was what dragged me down. He fixed me up in no time at all."

* *

"That was something like my case," said the cherry tree. "I got to feeling punk myself. At first I thought I had worms, but it only proved to be brown moths. Then I got struck by lightning and my right limb was paralyzed and withered up. But a surgeon amputated it and today I'm bearing more cherries than ever before."

"Did I ever tell you about coming out of the ether after my operation?" asked the birch.

"Let's hear about it," said the elm. "I'll bet it will be good."

"Well," continued the birch, "it was the last time I had my bark removed. And when I was coming out of the ether I thought I was a California redwood tree and it took half a dozen tree surgeons to hold me down. I began abusing everybody and called five of them jackasses and the other a damn fool. I was mortified when I came to."

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

POLE EXPLORING TO BE TOLD AT U. C.

BERKELEY, Sept. 17. — As a part of the National Academy of Sciences which will open at the University of California, Thursday, September 18, Isaiah Bowman director of the American Geographical Society of New York, will give a popular, illustrated lecture on "Polar Exploration," and explain why scientists are risking their lives to reach the forbidding Arctic and Antarctic regions.

The lecture, which is to be given in Wheeler auditorium on the Berkeley campus, at 8 p. m., at the close of the first day's sessions, Thursday, will be open to the public without admsision charge.

Director Bowman states that his lecture will have to do with the interrelations of the problems of the polar regions, in regard to their past part in the migration of life from one part of the world to the other, in regard to their suspected relationship to the weather conditions of the globe as a whole, and in regard to their effect upon ocean currents.

He will also refer to the personalities and ships of recent expeditions and illustrate the scientific results with maps and lantern slides.

Director Bowman, in addition to having taken a leading part in the organization of many expeditions, is himself an explorer of note. He was leader of the first Yale South American expedition in 1907, geagrapher and geologist for the Ytle Peruvian expedition in 1911, and leader of the expedition to the Central Andes under the auspices of the American Geographical society in 1913. For this work he has been awarded the Bonaparte-Wyse gold medal of the Geographical Society of Paris, and the gold medal of the Geographical Society of Chicago.

He was chief territorial specialist of the American commission to negotiate peace, 1918-19; and member of various territorial commissions of the peace conference. He was physiographer for the United States department of justice in the Red River boundary dispute, and is a member of the executive committee of the national research council.

His publications include, "South America," "The Andes of Southern Peru," "The New World—Problems in Political Geography," "Desert Trails of Atacama," "An American Boundary Dispute," "The Mohammedan World," "The Pioneer Fringe," and many others, including "Human Geography," of which he was a co-author.

Grapes Now Being Tested At U. C. Farm

DAVIS, Sept. 17.—Palatability tests of grapes are being made by the Division of Viticulture of the University of California at the branch of the College of Agriculture here, in an endeavor to find a means of determining when grapes are mature enough to be palatable, aside from the sugar test which is now used. According to A. J. Winkler, associate professor of viticulture, grapes that pass the sugar test in one locality are pleasant to taste, while grapes from another district with the same sugar percentage are very sour.

To determine what grapes are pleasant, fruit is being collected from vines in all parts of the state and submitted to persons who taste it. Not less than six persons are used for each test.

"We feel there should be a better means of determining the eating quality of grapes than that of merely determining the sugar percentage," says Professor Winkler. "Perhaps it may be a hydrometer test plus a sugar-acid determination; we hope through our experimentation to be able to find some means that will determine palatability in any section of the state."

KIWANIS HEAR TALK ON AIR

"Commercial Aviation" was the subject of an address delivered before the Richmond Kiwanis club yesterday by Dalton McCarthy, official of an air transport company.

McCarthy made an interesting talk, prophesying that in the near future, aviation will be used almost exclusively as a means of passenger transportation, and pointed out that in comparsion with other modes of travel the air has proven to be both safe and efficient.

George Lee, Richmond delegate to the Kiwanis convention at Hermosa beach gave a report on the conclave and Frank Avinelis entertained with musical numbers.

Car Stolen From Local Salesman

OAKLAND, Sept. 17.—Police are today searching for an ex-convict and a girl companion, who, after a demonstration of an automobile by W. E. Pomeroy, Richmond auto salesman, disappeared with the car while Pomeroy was telephoning his Richmond office.

According to Pomeroy, the man, who gave his name as David Ponton, and the girl, appeared at his home in Oakland and said they wanted to buy a car.

Pomeroy took the pair on a demonstration tour, and when the couple said they would take the automobile, the salesman went into a store to telephone his Richmond office to have the bill of sale made out.

When he returned to the spot he had left the machine, the man, girl and machine were all missing. Subsequent investigation revealed Ponton to be a former convict.

Felons Found At Folsom

FOLSOM, Sept. 17.—UP— Two prisoners, William J. Burke and William Clark, who disappeared from their cells Tuesday evening, were found late tonight hiding under the floor of the prison chapel.

Burke, serving a long sentence for burglary in Los Angeles made an escape last year, and Clark, who has now made two unsuccessful attempts to get outside the prison walls since coming here from Santa Cruz on a conviction for burglary were driven from their hiding place by tear bombs.

Warden Court Smith became suspicious today of a prisoner, whom he refused to name and worked on the theory that he was carrying food and water to the missing convicts. The prisoner was questioned broke down and gave away the secret.

Bathing Tilt Is Old Story

BUDAPEST,—Apropos the annual discussion each summer concerning the morality and immorality of mixed bathing and concerning the amount of bathing suit required for decency's sake the Hungarian writer Jolan Jacob in a recent newspaper article cited two fifteenth-century documents.

One stated: "It is comic that decrepid old women as well as beautiful young girls should walk naked into the water before the eyes of men."

Another recorded the fact that in a then famous public bath "both sexes are in the water together, the men clothed only in their beards and the women in a loin cloth; therefore it is an urgent matter that more drastic measures be taken to insure that all bathers, whether men or women, cover on entering and leaving the water."

Man Employed In D. C. For Life

WASHINGTON. —UP—The District of Columbia government has a man on its payroll it can't get rid of.

Dr. William Tindall; who has been in the city's employ for 61 years, was given a life-time job by act of congress. Tindall is an authority on the history and development on the national capital and served as secretary to its last two governors and all of its boards of commissioners until 1912.

Although he reached the compulsory retirement age a decade ago, Tindall's period of service was extended several times because of his value to municipal officials. But the law prohibited his serving longer than the first of August.

The act authorizing his continuance on the payroll was put through in the closing hours of congress, just before adjournment.

Girl Escapes In Car Crash

Miss Monie Cunningham of Oakland, received slight cuts and bruises, when a car in which she was sitting early yesteday morning near Kozy Kove, rolled over the bank, and after turning over several times crashed to the beach, 50 feet below.

According to police, Miss Cunningham was sitting in the car with Edward Ferrero of Berkeley, and when Ferrero got out to crank the machine, the brakes gave way and the car rolled over the bank.

Easy to look at

THERE'S a harmony between the natural loveliness of this modern age and the natural, mild goodness of Camels. And if you find them keeping company, don't be surprised.

Camel has given the world the luxury of a naturally mild cigarette —a cigarette that preserves all the refreshing fragrance of the choice, mild tobaccos from which it is made—a cigarette that is delightfully smooth, but never flat, never parched, never tasteless.

Modern smokers are awake to the fact that mere flatness doesn't mean mildness. That's one reason there's such a swing to Camels. Watch it right in your own crowd. Join them in Camels—a smoke that's enjoyable all the way—all the time.
